

I am a citizen in a more prosperous community. Telemarketers had concentrated on our city. We got 40-50 calls weekly during the evening hours before the "no call" list. Now it's a few. The FCC should not change Indiana's implementation of "no call". I don't want to refinance my house, and if I did, I have a good banking relationship. I don't want a new magazine, and it should be my right to not have to talk to 40 kids a week about those kinds of things.

PS: A Lot better way to spend the taxes I pay would be to concentrate on the smut I get in my eMail. Shall I attach one? How does the first ammendment work? One way only? Do I have the right to not hear or not speak or not see? Never know it - come look at my eMail.

And if you weaken the "no call" list I'm going to be forced to hear what I want to not hear or else miss a call from my very elderly mother.
